Human rights policy

The Ricoh Group conducts itself in a manner that respects the human rights of all people involved in its business activities based on its founding principles of "The Spirit of Three Loves (Love your neighbor, Love your country, Love your work)".

Ricoh hereby establishes the Ricoh Group's human rights policy in accordance with the philosophy of the Ricoh Group Code of Conduct, which respects international human rights principles and declares that Ricoh will act in accordance with human rights.

(1) Position of the policy and scope

This policy is positioned at the top of all human rights-related standards and regulations within Ricoh whose goal is the prevention of human rights violations.

The policy applies to all executives and all employees of Ricoh. Suppliers and all forms of business partners of Ricoh are also requested to support and implement this policy.

(2) Conforming to international principles and standards

Respect for human rights is the foundation of business activities and the recognition of human rights is an essential responsibility for companies.

Ricoh's respect for human rights follows principles set forth in the International Bill of Human Rights and the International Labor Organization's Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, which set core labor standards in accordance with the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. Further, as a signatory to the United Nations Global Compact, Ricoh supports the "Ten Principles of the United Nations Global Compact".

Ricoh will comply with the laws and regulations of each country and region in which Ricoh operates. In cases where the domestic laws and regulations differ from the international principles and standards, Ricoh will seek ways to respect internationally recognized human rights principles and standards.

(3) Respect for human rights of stakeholders

Ricoh respects the human rights of all Ricoh "Stakeholders", defined as all employees, suppliers, business partners, and customers as well as all members of the local community without exception, throughout the value chain associated with our businesses.

Eliminate all discrimination

Ricoh's respect for all fundamental human rights includes respecting the diversity of individuals. Taking into consideration the laws and regulations of each country, Ricoh pledges not to engage in any discriminatory treatment by gender, age, nationality, race, ethnicity, color, ideology, creed, religion, social status, occupation or occupational status, marriage status, pregnancy status, family origin, sexual orientation, gender identity, physical features, disease, disability and so on.

Work environment

Ricoh provides a work environment in which the human rights of all employees within Ricoh and its supply chain are respected. Specifically, Ricoh provides a healthy and safe working environment free from physical and mental harassment (including corporal punishment, violence, discrimination, intimidation, sexual harassment and so on.) Taking into consideration the laws and regulations of each country, Ricoh respects the protection of the rights of young workers, the provision of minimum wages, the proper management of working hours, freedom of association, the right to collective bargaining and the protection of privacy. Ricoh prohibits all forms of forced labor, child labor, or human trafficking.

Responsible mineral sourcing

Ricoh conducts “responsible mineral sourcing” within our supply chain ensuring Ricoh is not complicit in any human rights violation due to mineral mining and trading in conflict and high-risk areas.

(4) Human rights due diligence

Through its human rights due diligence mechanisms, Ricoh strives to protect the human rights of Stakeholders and promote sustainable corporate activities. Ricoh assesses and identifies human rights risks throughout its business activities and supply chain and any identified negative impacts on human rights are reported to top management. Ricoh will continue to implement prevention and mitigation of human rights’ risks under the responsibility of management.

(5) Remedy

Ricoh respects the freedom of expression of all stakeholders and provides a comprehensive whistleblowing system and grievance mechanism that enables the reporting of human rights concerns without fear of retaliation. If an allegation of a human rights violation is made, Ricoh will promptly investigate the allegation and take timely remedial action to correct the negative impact on human rights and implement preventive controls to mitigate risks of any future violations.

(6) Education and training

Ricoh provides the continuous education and training necessary for executives and employees to put this policy into practice.

(7) Dialogue

Through active dialogue with external stakeholders such as NGOs and industry groups, Ricoh strengthens its efforts to respect human rights.

(8) Transparency

Ricoh will transparently disclose the progress of our efforts to address adverse negative impacts on human rights including through the Ricoh Group’s website and/or integrated report.

Pursuit of attractive work & life

The Ricoh Group will establish a workplace environment where all officers, employees and cooperators can work securely, safely and comfortably, and will promote efficient and creative workplaces. Also, the Ricoh Group will create an environment that allows all employees to work flexibly, and an environment that is compatible with parenting, nursing care, treatment, etc., and help each and every individual to work lively and maximize performance of individuals and teams, so that it will realize "development of company" and "happiness of individuals".

Coexistence with the community

The Ricoh Group will respect the culture and customs of its country or region, considering, stakeholders' views, engage in continuous activities for priority areas set so as to contribute to society with intent and responsibility.

(1) Respect the world's cultures and customs

Officers and Employees must act with the necessary respect for the history, culture and customs of the various nations and regions within which they operate.

(2) Engage in activities that contribute to the local community

Officers and Employees, because they want the Ricoh Group to be welcome, familiar and trusted in local society, should strive to work closely with that community, making contributions to it that will further the local culture and economy.

(3) Foster a corporate ethos that places importance on contributions to society

Officers and Employees should, by voluntary participation in activities, strive foster a corporate ethos that puts the proper value on social contributions.

Ensuring fair corporate activities

7.1 Free competition and fair trading

The Ricoh Group will remain in strict compliance with the laws and regulations governing the banning of monopolies, fair competition, and fair trading, and will take no action seeking to evade them.

(1) We will enter no agreements or discussions for the reciprocal limitation of corporate activities.

Officers and Employees will not participate in discussions or agreements with competitors in the same industry to impose reciprocal limits on corporate freedom of action in connection with the conditions of competitive bids, product pricing, conditions of sale, profits, market share, sales areas, etc.

(2) We will not exploit our trading position.

Officers and Employees will not exploit our trading position to impose unprofitable transactions upon our trading partners, nor will we impose limitations on trading between our trading partners and third parties.

(3) We will not make inappropriate displays nor offer inappropriately large premiums or prizes.

Officers and Employees shall not provide displays nor offer inappropriately large premiums or prizes that might lead customers to a mistaken choice of product.

7.2 Proper control of exports and imports

In order to realize security trade control and proper export/import procedures for the purpose of maintaining international peace and security, the Ricoh Group is required to comply with laws and regulations concerning export/import in the country/region (group companies in Japan in the case of "Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Law" and "Customs Law"), will not act against laws and regulations concerning export/import in the United States and laws concerning export/import of trading partner countries.

(1) Applicability assessment for trading goods and technologies

Officers and Employees shall, in accordance with the internal procedures specified by company regulations, judge beforehand whether any restrictions apply to the export or import of goods (products, components, equipment, materials) or related technologies, and record the result.

(2) Customer and trading assessment (Assessing the necessity of export/import permit)

When exporting, importing goods or providing related technologies, Officers and Employees shall confirm beforehand whether such transactions would infringe the export import relevant laws and regulations or require a permit, based on the result of the judgment of applicable restrictions and the customer and usage requirements assessment. When restrictions are found to be applicable, appropriate export/import procedures shall be followed.

(3) Export restrictions for non-proliferation

When trading goods or related technologies, whether or not restrictions are found to be applicable, Officers and Employees shall voluntarily apply controls in the spirit of export restrictions for non-proliferation.

Officers and Employees will not conduct transactions if the goods to be traded and the technologies to be provided are likely to be used for diversion, development, etc. of weapons related. Also, if there is any doubt, after strict customer review and transaction review, leaving a record of the examination, whether the transaction is possible or not shall be determined by the export import control person who is prescribed by the compliance rules of the export and import related laws and regulations or the Ricoh Group Rules on compliance with Export & Import related legislation.

(4) Fight against Customs fraud: AEO status – Authorized Economic Operations

To simplify and secure its internal exchanges, RIF became an Authorized Economic Operator in 2010. It is a worldwide recognized European customs label granted to reliable companies. The AEO certificate is a trust agreement between the Customs Administration and RIF. Our company is committed to implementing internal and external measures to ensure the safety and security of all its flows and procedures. In return, Customs provides a number of administrative facilities.

Due to the high increase in the risk of fraud, securing the supply chain is becoming an essential contractual criterion for companies in international trade with the development of new rules. This is why RIF must apply the regulatory obligations of Article 215.i of the EU Implementing Regulation 2015/2447 of the Committee dated November 24, 2015 with the establishment of a specific procedure in case of fraud within our company (sale of contraband, prohibited items, ...).

All internal and external links in the RIF transport and logistics chain (partners, suppliers) are concerned and required to ensure the safety and security of the services they provide to our company.

The RIF employees must take ownership of the key messages in RIF's anti-fraud policies and procedures and know what is expected from them.

Who should I contact in case of doubt and/or customs fraud at RIF?
